He sleeps in a wooden bed, eats on plastic plates and we only have four plastic chairs.

Their house is only one room and is very small. The floor of the house is only dirt and the roof consists of tin sheeting. Most of the walls are made of plastic sheeting and some hand hewn planks that they cut in the nearby forest. Inside there is no bathroom, they have to use an outhouse. They gather water from the river which is not too far away and take the water back to the house to cook and clean with. The "stove" is an adobe oven that is outside. In cold weather they bring wood into the house and start a fire on the dirt floor. This makes breathing very difficult.
